Social Darwinism and Eugenics became hot topics from about the 1850s to the 1940s. Eugenics, a term coined from the Greek, means "well-born." All around the world governments and intellectuals were very much involved in the pseudo-scientific Social Darwinist projects whose social costs were enormous. This course focuses on the rise and decline of the ideas and practices of Eugenics in Turkey and the world and aims to assess the extent to which Eugenics reached in the early Republican Turkey. We will have extensive readings about intellectual and scientific bases of Eugenics and focus also the experiences of many countries where it almost became government policies. Particular attention will be devoted to many Turkish intellectuals, doctors and the governing elite who raised issues regarding Eugenics and Social Darwinism.

The grade in this course will be based on

a) Term paper	40%	b) Participation	30%
c) Final Exam	30%
